Lawyers Sum Up Kidnaping Case For Jury

Declare Cyril Buck Is Innocent Of Any Wrongdoing In McMath Case

CONFESSION BY KENNETH "FAKED"

Mysterious "Bill" Had Part In Framing Plot; Buck Threatened

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BARNSTABLE, Mass., June 24.—Declaring Cyril Buck was entirely innocent of any wrongdoing, William Carleton, his counsel, today summed up the case before the jury at the trial of Kenneth and Cyril Buck, brothers who are charged with the kidnaping of 10-year old Peggy McMath.

"Cyril Buck tried to help McMath, the girl's father," said Carleton. "He did everything he could to bring about the safe return of the child. He refused to accept any of McMath's money. He knows nothing at all about Bill. He was an entirely innocent party trying to do the right thing under the circumstances."

The "Bill" referred to was the mysterious "Bill" the bootlegger, whom Kenneth Buck testified was the man who engineered the kidnaping, using him as a tool.

Carleton finished his summation in less than half an hour. Elias Burwick, counsel for Kenneth Buck, followed. He assailed the circumstances surrounding the obtaining of the confession Kenneth made to Chief of Police Emmett Hall in which Kenneth said he alone conceived and executed the crime.

"That wasn't the true story," said Burwick. "The true story was given before you from the witness stand by Kenneth Buck. He told you he was only a tool, a tool of Bill, the bootlegger."

Herbert Hoover Will Direct History Research

(International News Service)
STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., June 24.—Herbert Hoover is going back to work soon.

When carpenters finish erecting a new work shop in the Stanford library, Mr. Hoover will move in and start his first big job since departing from the White House. Workmen were busy today constructing shelves, cabinets and desks for the former president's new study. Mr. Hoover's task will be direct-tion of a staff of research experts in the study of secrets of modern history. It is the former president's desire to preserve the untold stories of world strife, it was said on university circles. Librarians reported that he probably will edit some of the material for publication. Virtually all the important papers are kept under seal. It was learned that many of them will not be made public for many years to come, until certain men die or until certain governments fall into disarray.

Lone Woman Survivor Of Lake Plane Crash Tells How Three Died

Young Husband, Pilot Of Plane, and Mechanic Give Lives That Woman May Live

One By One Victims Slipped To Death Beneath Waves From Battered Gas Tank

(International News Service)
KEWANEE, Wis., June 24.—Horribly blistered from the sun and near collapse, Mrs. Charles Rennie, Jr., 27, sole survivor of an airplane crash in Lake Michigan that took the lives of three men, today told of a dramatic 33 hour battle for life in the cold lake waters.

Mrs. Rennie, the wife of an oil company executive, was rescued last night by Car Ferry No. 7 of the Ann Arbor fleet, and brought here. The dead are her 29 year old husband; his uncle, James Gillette, 28, and a mechanic, Peter Keller.

Through parched lips, she told doctors on her arrival here that the three men apparently had given up their lives that she might cling to a battered gasoline tank that they had torn from the sinking airplane. Mrs. Rennie is the mother of three small children. A proficient tennis enthusiast, her activity as a sports-woman was believed responsible for the stamina which enabled her to keep afloat during the 33 hour ordeal in the lake waters.

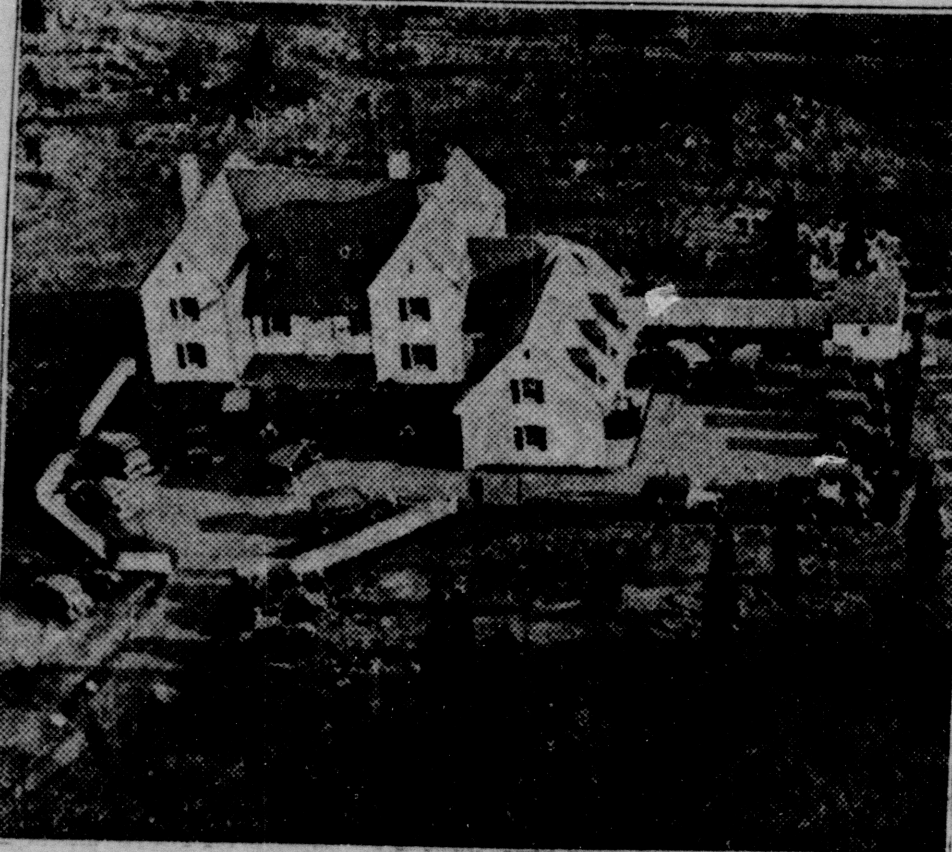

She had clung to the makeshift raft for 33 hours, awaiting the rescue which came at dusk last night when the Car Ferry nosed through. (Continued On Page Two)

Suddenly she realized that she had hooked a real fish and determined to land it, she waded out into the stream to battle with it. She finally landed it and had a brown trout, which measured 22½ inches in length and weighed two and three-quarters pounds. The head of the fish is being preserved.

Probe Deaths Of Offutt And Sager In Crash

Witnesses Say Driver Of Offutt Car Was On Wrong Side Of Road

YOUTHS ON TRUCK TELL ABOUT CRASH

Inquiry into the deaths of Nathan A. Offutt and Sylvester Sager, who died following a collision between the car of Offutt, and an oil truck driven by H. L. Fry, Jr., of 509 Newell avenue, on the Harlansburg road, three miles east of the city last Saturday afternoon, was conducted by Coroner Orville Potter in the office of Alderman L. C. Mantz, last evening.

Fry Testifies
Fry, driver of the oil truck, and the group of youths who were riding on the vehicle, enroute to Harlansburg where they were to play baseball that afternoon, testified that the Offutt car, swerved from the right side of the road to the left, just before they reached the scene of the accident, as if it was pulling over to the left side of the road to park.

Fry stated that he was not aware of the approach of the Offutt car until it was a comparatively short distance away, as the lower side of the road was shaded by trees. When he first saw the Offutt car, it was coming along on the wrong side of the road, directly at him, and was traveling in a straight line.

When it became apparent to him that the car was not going to stop, he started to swing his car toward the center of the road, and then as Offutt did likewise, and it seemed as if a collision was inevitable, he jerked the wheel sharply to the left and at the same time, applied the brakes vigorously. He had been driving at a rate of 30 miles per hour, but had slowed down to about 15 when the collision occurred, he stated. He was unable to estimate how fast the driver of the Offutt car was traveling.

Fire Damages North Hill Home

Spontaneous Ignition Believed Cause Of Fire At Midnight Last Night

OCCUPANTS AWAY FROM HOME AT TIME

Damage of approximately $700 resulted from a blaze in the home of Mrs. Blanche Hofmeister, 318 East Winter avenue, at 12:45 last night. The fire which originated in a mattress, stored in the attic, is believed to have been due to spontaneous ignition. Mrs. Hofmeister and children have been away for the past few weeks, visiting relatives in Kentucky. Neighbors discovered the blaze and turned in an alarm from box 212. Although the fire had a fairly good start, it was confined chiefly to the attic, although some damage was done to the rest of the house and the furniture by water. The home is owned by C. L. Martin, and the loss on the house is covered by insurance.

Two Trucks Destroyed And Eight Other Cars Damaged Last Evening

FIREMEN DELAYED BY FREIGHT TRAIN

Two Ford trucks were destroyed and eight other machines had the tops damaged in a blaze in the state highway department garage on East Cherry street at 7:30 last evening. The damage was estimated by Assistant Fire Chief James E. Thomas at approximately $1,500.

The fire is believed to have resulted from faulty wiring or leaking gasoline. Seventh ward firemen turned in a second alarm from box 76 on reaching the scene. B. truck and Assistant Fire Chief James E. Thomas, in answering the alarm, were delayed about five minutes at the Mahoning avenue crossing, when a freight train obstructed their passage. The train was finally cut, permitting them to proceed.

No. 5 and 6 departments answered on the second alarm, but did not go into action. The building, of sheet iron construction, was not seriously damaged although plaster board partitions and the ceiling of the same material were burned away. The tops of seven trucks and a small roadster were damaged.

World Conference Marking Time As Moley Is Awaited

Believe Assistant Secretary Of State Will Have New Proposal

PESSIMISM MARKS PARLEY PROSPECTS

Hull One Of Few Delegates Optimistic Of Any Real Results

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

GEOLOGICAL MUSEUM, LONDON, June 24.—The world economic conference was in a state of suspended animation today, awaiting next week's clarifying developments which are rightly or wrongly expected to coincide with Assistant Secretary of State Moley's arrival.

The most important continental statesmen, including Finance Minister Georges Bonnet of France and Prime Minister Hendrik Colijn of Holland returned home for the week end to consult their governments. Leaving Prime Minister MacDonald alone to carry on his optimistic attitude toward the parley's future.

Pessimism Rampant

MacDonald and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, leader of the American delegation, almost alone among the leading statesmen believe the conference can accomplish any appreciable part of its ambitious program. Incidentally, Hull's complacent optimism is not shared by the majority of the other American delegates, who are distinctly pessimistic. They are thoroughly in accord, however, with President Roosevelt's determination not to agree to anything here which is likely to interfere with domestic recovery at home.

Moley will find himself under a fierce spotlight upon his arrival. For days the London Press has been concentrating on his mission, speculating all the way from the possibility he is carrying something (Continued On Page Two)

Gang Slaying Near Akron, O.

Man Found Shot To Death At Wheel Of Car On Road

(International News Service)
AKRON, O., June 24.—The bullet-riddled body of a man identified as Matthias Gerstein, 32, of Bristol, R. I., was found slouched behind the steering wheel of an automobile parked on the Twinsburg-Macedonia road, near Northfield, today.

Belief that the man had been "taken for a ride" by gangland enemies was expressed by Sheriff Ray Potts after an examination. The man had been shot five times in the back of the head.

Unknown to Akron police officials, the man was believed to have been involved in an underworld racket in Cleveland, authorities of that city were asked to aid in the investigation.

Identity of the man was established through papers found in his possession.

The old time martyrs had the rep of taking lots of grief and woe, and standing up with visage grim, and quailing not, but I don't know, I've wondered if those old time lads had laws to move in summer heat. I ask you if they had that job, could they have acted blithe and sweet. For all they did was battle with a lion in his private den, which I assume was tough enough and rather hard upon those men, but still and all if they had had to now lawn as like as not, they would have quailed at least a bit, it's ninety-six and plenty hot.

who was one of the youths on the oil tank, directly behind the cab of the machine, told a similar story. He stated that Offutt was hurled through the windshield by the impact of the collision, and that Sager was thrown out into the road.

Dr. E. U. Snyder testified about attending both men at the New Castle hospital. Sager had received a fracture of the fourth cervical vertebra, an X-ray showed. He was dead when brought to the hospital. Offutt was still conscious when he first saw him, the doctor stated, but was unable to answer questions coherently. He was bleeding from the left ear, and had a swelling over the left eye. His condition rapidly became worse and death ensued shortly after midnight on June 18.

An X-ray showed a multiple fracture of the skull, which extended from the temporal region to the mastoid region and over the left ear.

Was Riding In Cab
Zearl Z. Fowler, of 616 North Cedar street, who was riding with Fry in the cab of the truck, told a story similar to that of the Fry brothers. His attention to the oncoming car was attracted by Fry's applying the brakes. He looked ahead and saw the machine coming at them along the road. The two left wheels of the Offutt car were off the improved part of the road, it was stated.

He stated that the scene of the accident was near the bottom of the grade, several hundred feet east of the home of Charles E. Graham.

There were eighteen boys on the rear end of the oil truck, in addition to the two riding in the cab. The machine was a Ford truck with an oil tank body.

After the collision, the oil truck went partly up over the bank on the north side of the road, while the Offutt car was hurled into the ditch.

Joe Medved, 313 East Cherry street, who was riding on the tank, just back of the cab, told a story similar to that of the other boys. Others who were on the truck who testified to the accident, were Carl Withers, Lake Lutton and James A. Rhodes. They were all hurled from the truck when the collision occurred, they stated.

Render Two Verdicts

The coroner's jury brought in two verdicts in the case, the men having died on different days. Sager, on June 17, at the time of the accident, and Offutt at 1:30, the following morning, June 18.

LONE WOMAN SURVIVOR TELLS HOW THREE DIED

The gathering dusk and picked her up fifteen miles west of Frankfort.

Three Drowned
Her husband and the other two men had slipped, one by one, into the cold waters, when they became convinced that the light tank would support only her weight.

The plane left Traverse City at 10 a. m. Thursday, she related, and ran into a fog that engulfed them. They were flying across the lake to Milwaukee.

Pilot Gives Up
The combined weight of the three men constantly threatened to pull the tank under, she said, and at dusk Thursday Gillette, pilot and owner of the plane, pleaded exhaustion and slipped beneath the waves.

For four hours, Rennie and his wife remained afloat together, but Rennie was fast losing his strength, the lone survivor said.

Then a boat passed, but did not see their feeble signals for aid.

Charles lost hope as the boat disappeared, and although I pleaded with him to stay he gave me his watch and ring, kissed me and said goodbye, slipping down and away. It was terrible.

"Then I was alone, the sun beating down on me all day. I was able to drink the lake water, and that kept me from thirst.

"Several boats passed by, but none saw me waving my jacket, nor did they hear my shouts. The glare of the sun became unbearable.

"I thought it was the end as night came along last night, but I was so weak I didn't care."

Rescue At Last
The lookout on the Ann Arbor first saw the exhausted woman bobbing on the waves. She was calling feebly and shaking a sodden jacket. The second and third officers, John Tegard and Peter Strum, put out in a small boat to pick her up.

"They're all gone," she mumbled, and collapsed as she was brought on board the car freighter.

starting to save the conference to the possibility he is coming to settle the debts issue.

Moley Holds Key
The result has been to focus attention on Moley which is bound to be embarrassing to Hull, since the conference statesmen are looking to Moley rather than Hull for definition of the American policy.

For example, the Daily Telegraph reports that "some leading European statesmen are working out a broad outline of world economic policy which they hope to submit to Moley."

Why they will submit it to Moley instead of to the American secretary of state requires no effort to explain.

Hull is not moved by rumors he will resign after his return to Washington to be succeeded by Moley or Bernard M. Baruch, beyond terming the rumors "utter rot," he refuses to comment.

Mortgage Ordered To Be Satisfied On County Record

Upon petition of Ada McCullough, owner of a property on Home street in the fifth ward, Judge R. L. Hildebrand this morning directed the satisfaction of a mortgage, given by Pasquale Cioffi, a former owner, to Victor Doyno, president of the defunct State bank.

The mortgage, which was for $700, was given on January 15, 1920. Cioffi made payments until the mortgage was paid in full, but Doyno neglected to satisfy it on the records. When Peter J. Cameron of the banking department took charge, the unsatisfied mortgage was found among the alleged assets of the bank. From records furnished, the state banking department was satisfied that the mortgage had been paid.

Judge R. L. Hildebrand announced this morning that a short session of court will be held on Monday morning at which motions and petitions can be presented.

MANY OVERCOME IN INDIANA CAPITAL

Forty-Nine Are Fumes Victims At Indianapolis

Physicians Working Against Threat Of Pneumonia To Fumes Sufferers

CYLINDER BLAST SPREADS TERROR

(International News Service) INDIANAPOLIS, June 24.—Physicians warned against the threat of pneumonia today as they treated 49 persons overcome by chlorine gas which billowed through the streets here when a gas cylinder at the Tripp warehouse exploded.

Many of those overcome were women and children who were struck by the deadly gaseous vapors in their homes. The gas penetrated homes and shops for a radius of three squares, overcoming their occupants.

who was one of the youths on the oil tank, directly behind the cab of the machine, told a similar story. He stated that Offutt was hurled through the windshield by the impact of the collision, and that Sager was thrown out onto the road.

Was Riding In Cab

Zeal Z. Fowler, of 616 North Cedar street, who was riding with Fry in the cab of the truck, told a story similar to that of the Fry brothers. His attention to the oncoming car was attracted by Fry's applying the brakes. He looked ahead and saw the machine coming at them along the road. The two left wheels of the Offutt car were off the improved part of the road, it was stated.

He stated that the scene of the accident was near the bottom of the grade, several hundred feet east of the home of Constable Graham.

Joe Medved, 313 East Cherry street, who was riding on the tank, just back of the cab, told a story similar to that of the other boys. Others who were on the truck testified to the accident, were Carl Witherow, Luke Lutton and James A. Rhodes. They were all hurled from the truck when the collision occurred, they stated.

James E. Cox, of 1006 Woodland avenue, told of arriving on the scene after the accident and of holding Offutt in his arms as he took him to the New Castle hospital. He stated that Offutt was conscious and en route to the hospital, made several efforts to get out of the machine. He was still conscious when the hospital was reached, he stated.

The coroner's jury brought in two verdicts in the case, the men having died on different days, Sager on June 17, at the time of the accident, and Offutt at 1:30, the following morning, June 18.

the gathering dusk and poked her up fifteen miles west of Frankfort.

Three Drowned

Her husband and the other two men had slipped, one by one, into the cold waters, when they became convinced that the light tank would support only her weight.

The plane left Traverse City at 10 a. m. Thursday, she related, and ran into a fog that engulfed them. They were flying across the lake to Milwaukee.

Pilot Gillette dropped the plane into the lake when he attempted a landing in the mist. The airplane, belonging to Gillette, was equipped with pontoons.

Floated For Time

The plane floated for a time, Mrs. Rennie said, and the men about, steady the wreckage, while she sat in the cockpit. The three had suffered injuries in the crash, she believed, but refused to admit their plight to her.

As the wreckage sank beneath the waves, the three tore away the gasoline tank, emptied its contents and used it as a makeshift float, placing Mrs. Rennie upon its top. She had to lie on her stomach, the blustering sun beating down on her back.

Pilot Gives Up

The combined weight of the three men constantly threatened to pull the tank under, she said, and at dusk Thursday Gillette, pilot and owner of the plane, pleaded exhaustion and slipped beneath the waves. "I think he did it because he feared he was overbalancing the tank," the widow explained.

Near dawn yesterday Keller, too, disappeared, as the tank began to leak water.

For four hours, Rennie and his wife remained afloat together, but Rennie was fast losing his strength, the lone survivor said.

"As the sun climbed higher, Charles said he couldn't hold on any longer. The waves were getting higher and he said I could get along better alone."

Husband Goes Down

Then a boat passed, but did not see their feeble signals for aid. "Charles lost hope as the boat disappeared, and although I pleaded with him to stay he gave me his watch and ring, kissed me and said goodbye, slipping down and away. It was terrible."

"Then I was alone, the sun beating down on me all day. I was able to drink the lake water, and that kept me from thirst."

"Several boats passed by, but none saw me waving my jacket, nor did they hear my shouts. The glare of the sun became unbearable."

"I thought it was the end as night came along last night, but I was so weak I didn't care."

Rescue At Last

The lookout on the Ann Arbor first saw the exhausted woman bobbing on the waves. She was calling feebly and shaking a sodden jacket. The second and third officers, John Telegard and Peter Strum, put out in a small boat to pick her up.

"They're all gone," she mumbled, and collapsed as she was brought on board the car freighter.

Another nice thing about poverty is that you don't have to get up in public and explain it.

Pittsburgh Man Severely Beaten

Former Night Club Owner Returns From Florida And Is Beaten Up By Gang

BLAMES INCIDENT OF TWO YEARS AGO

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, June 24.—Kicked insensible when attacked by assailants described as members of a slot machine ring, L. Carl (Rudy) Poppe, former night club proprietor, recovered sufficiently today to ask police to search for his attackers.

Poppe was "taken for a ride" Thursday when abducted as he left a Sixth street cabaret at 10 p. m. He was bundled into an automobile and taken to a lonely spot in the north side of the city where he was beaten and kicked until he lost consciousness, police said.

Two Year Feud

Poppe told police he leaped from the car once but was picked up again by the four men who kidnapped him. He was later dragged into an alley where police found his unconscious form.

Poppe blamed the attack on his refusal to install slot machines in his roadhouse on Butler plank road two years ago.

The victim said he had fled to Florida after being shot at about that time and that he had returned two days before Thursday's attack.

starting to save the conference to the possibility he is coming to settle the debts issue.

Moley Holds Key

The result has been to focus attention on Moley which is bound to be embarrassing to Hull, since the conference statesmen are looking to Moley rather than Hull for definition of the American policy.

For example, the Daily Telegraph reports that "some leading European statesmen are working out a broad outline of world economic policy which they hope to submit to Moley."

Why they will submit it to Moley instead of to the American secretary of state requires no effort to explain.

Hull is not moved by rumors he will resign after his return to Washington to be succeeded by Moley or Bernard M. Baruch, beyond terming the rumors "utter rot," he refuses to comment.

The American delegation held a two hour session reviewing the situation, but discussion was only general. Joseph Connolly of the Irish Free State was among Hull's few callers.

French Not Hopeful Paris, June 24.—Extreme pessimism was expressed by Finance Minister George Bonnet today in reporting on the world economic conference to the French cabinet.

Bonnet, it was learned, attributed the parley's lack of progress to America's refusal to enter a temporary stabilization agreement, key-stone of the French platform for world economic recovery.

Hull Issues Statement London, June 24.—Taking cognizance of European criticism that American domestic policies were jeopardizing the success of the world economic conference, Secretary of State Cordell Hull issued a formal statement late today, assuring the world that President Roosevelt's internal policies were not in conflict with the international program of the conference.

Spectators around the new federal building on the public square have dwindled down to most nothing these days. The high fence built around the construction work blocks the view of all spectators into the scene of activity.

Two blackbirds had the time of their lives yesterday in teasing and mocking a Persian cat on the roof of an East North street house. The cat gazed up wistfully while the birds, safe from all harm, tantalized him with vocal refrain and flapping of wings.

The large frame building at the corner of West Washington and North Front streets is being remodeled extensively. The building was damaged by fire a number of months ago.

Thirty or more girls are going to Camp East Brook of the Y. W. C. A. this afternoon to launch a twelve day period of camp life. If they are not brown and husky now they will be before their return on July 8.

Pa Newc noticed that the grass surrounding the base of the soldier monument on the public square was given a clipping this morning. Because of the fence around the monument, this patch of grass is rather difficult to get at, and should appreciate the attention.

YOU ARE WATCHED
Wherever you go, you are being watched.
Whatever you do, an eye is on you.
Even in your sleep, the eye is open.

Working, playing, loafing, dreaming, struggling, growing, diminishing, eating and drinking and fighting and loving, you are watched.

People watch you. When you go down the street they look at you and make judgments about you. Some approve. Some condemn. Some hardly see you at all, but a slight decision about you moves swifter than the speed of light through them. They accept you or they condemn. . . . Your friends watch you. Your family watches you. You are closely than all others. . . . You say to yourself, wistfully, "I wish somebody understood me." Don't worry about that. People understand you better than you think. They judge you through your actions and your actions, after all, are the real history that you write upon life from birth to the grave. . . . It is fair, though some may deny it, to judge a man by his actions. By the way he works, by the things he loves, by his words, his smiles, his visible emotions. The things he does come out of himself as surely as a chicken comes out of an egg or a flower out of a bud. These are part of him and he cannot get away.

But he is watched from the INSIDE, too. There is the eye that watches a man in every second of his living, though he be walking down the street or dreaming in his sleep. There's himself, sometimes admiring, sometimes sneering, always open, always alert, missing nothing. . . . This eye watches you. Buried deeply within you, never seen, always there, it is your most savage enemy, your surest friend. It can tear you down, it can build you up, weaken you to abjection, strengthen you to clean and healthy pride. . . . And everything you do is important because by that eye you are always watched!

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

THE QUITTING HABIT.

It is easy to get the habit of quitting. If it is done a few times. Throughout your life you have always given up easily, even when confronted by small obstacles that interfered with your personal betterment.

Looking ahead, if you saw problems to be encountered, you decided that any achievement you might gain would not be worth the effort it cost.

So you abandoned your plans, and pretty much always it has been thus.

Splendid opportunities you have allowed to slip by, because you would not exert the sustained effort required to maintain your hold.

You would not give every ounce of your physical and mental force to retain even what you had, let alone make effort to gain more.

Those who have been winners in any line are those who hung on.

If you were willing to hang on and give every minute of your waking hours to any course planned and laid out within your ability to perform, even when you had, let alone make effort to gain more.

You have never felt sufficiently interested in winning anything.

If you were interested you would not spare yourself as you do.

And you wonder why others outstrip you at every turn.

Stir up interest and having started, don't be a quitter.

DISCOVERIES.
We've been on simpler rations now a year or two or more.

And looking back across the track of all that's gone before.

We both can see the garden's gay with all the blooms of spring.

To suit the days we've changed our ways.

But haven't lost a thing.

Time was we thought we needed much.

Contentment's peace to know.

Contentment's peace to know.

But it appears, for two long years.

With all their weight of woe.

There's solid worth in gentle mirth.

And hours in friendship spent.

And still alive we work and strive.

With simpler joys content.

'Tis strange how much we overlooked.

When we were slaves to show.

'Tis truth I pen, we fancied then.

Display was good to know.

But books at night give real delight.

And home I come from town.

At close of day content to stay.

In peace to settle down.

What's gone is wearying gayety.

And its attendant pomp.

The parlor floor is now once more.

A place to race and romp.

The charm profound of home we've found.

Again old songs we sing.

Despite the care we've had to hear.

We haven't lost a thing!

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

city of New Castle and the board of county commissioners of Lawrence county. It is a fact that for some time past, the city has been furnishing employment on city projects to a number of persons receiving relief through state relief agencies; but it is not a fact that the city has paid the men so employed wages for their services. The only compensation received by the men thus employed, was the relief furnished by the state. The city administration believed that it was necessary and the city did employ a number of persons as foremen in charge of the work and said persons were paid by the city. The only other expense to the city for the services of the men thus employed, was the payment of premiums on compensation insurance carried by the city and the furnishing of a noonday meal to the men thus employed. It must be kept in mind that the projects upon which these men were employed were distinctly city projects and the county commissioners were neither consulted nor exercised any control over the work done. The men employed thus became city employees and by no stretch of the imagination could they be considered county employees.

The city council requested the county commissioners to pay out of county poor funds the premiums above mentioned and also to pay the salaries or wages of the foremen. The county commissioners were advised by their solicitor that the law would not permit them to expend poor funds to pay premiums on insurance taken out under the Workmen's Compensation Act on city employees, neither would the law permit them to expend said monies in hiring foremen on city projects.

The work upon which the city of New Castle proposed to employ said men was the construction of a driveway over private property to Cascade Park, a project taken over by the city of New Castle, and also in the improvement of said park. It needs no argument to convince any reasonable mind that this was clearly a city project and not a county project and that, therefore, neither the county nor the poor district could expend county or poor funds for said purposes.

It is further stated that if said relief work is not continued it will mean "that the county poor board will be obliged to add most of those who have been on the relief jobs to the county dole system." This is not a fact. The aid furnished through the state relief agencies does not depend upon the person receiving the aid working for said relief and will be furnished whether or not this work is continued.

The city council in making the request of the county commissioners stated that they were without funds to continue this work. This is to be regretted. The county commissioners are in full sympathy with the program of furnishing employment and would be glad to do so on distinctly county projects if the funds of the county justified such expenditure. On June 22, 1933, there was in the general account of the county, the sum of $62,908.89. On July 1, 1933 bonds of the county of Lawrence and interest on same in the sum of $107,160.00, must be met. The poor district has borrowed since January 1, 1933, from local banks to meet current expenses of the poor district $35,000. The certificates of indebtedness in said amount mature August 1, 1933. On July 1, 1933, interest on poor district bonds in the sum of $3847.50 become due. There are unpaid bills of the poor district due as of June 22, 1933, in excess of $10,000, and of said date there are funds available of the poor district in the sum of $10,883.94 to meet the above commitment.

The reader may draw his own conclusion as to whether or not either the county or the poor district, if they had the lawful authority to grant the request of council, would have the funds with which to meet the necessary expenditures.

Said editorial also makes the statement that a great portion of the county poor fund is paid by city taxpayers. This is correct. The city of New Castle pays approximately 62% of the poor tax, but on the other hand, approximately 75% to 80% of the poor fund is expended in affording relief to persons residing in the city of New Castle.

We are submitting this statement for the mere purpose of refuting the statement of the editorial writer. We would be pleased if your paper would publish the above statements of fact in order that your readers would have accurate and correct information in reference to the matters contained in said editorial and information disseminated from other sources.

Respectfully submitted,
A. E. CONNER,
P. O. ELDER,
F. R. WOODS,
County Commissioners of Lawrence County.

WAMPUM

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS
An event of widespread interest occurred on Thursday, June 22, when a reunion of one of the first organized classes of the Wampum Presbyterian Sunday school was held.

The group of young women who were members of that class as children a number of years ago, assembled at the home of Mrs. Bessie Ketter Ferguson, the teacher, and then motored to Ewing Park, Ellwood City, where a delicious picnic dinner was spread and heartily enjoyed.

The afternoon was spent in renewing old friendships and reminiscing of the past, some of the members not having seen each other for a number of years. Such an enjoyable time was spent that it was decided to make the reunion an annual event and to have husbands and children of the members participate in the future activities of the group.

A permanent organization was effected and the following officers and committee chosen for the coming year:

President—Mrs. Charles S. Ferguson.
Secretary-treasurer—Mrs. Herman Hall.
Committee on arrangements—Mrs. J. J. Jennings, Mrs. W. N. Christopher, Mrs. J. E. Carpenter.

Twenty-one members of the class out of the enrollment of 28 were present as follows:

Mrs. Ruth Funkhouser Rusoff, Alliance, O.; Mrs. Goldie Price Book, Barberton, O.; Mrs. Ethel Galbreath Marshall, Sharon, Pa.; Mrs. Elizabeth Grundy Miller, Mercer, Pa.; Mrs. Nettie Galbreath Moore, Greenville, Pa.; Mrs. Beryl Butler Christopher, Beaver Falls, Pa.; Mrs. Effie Abernathy Cox, Masury, O.; Mrs. Florence Weitz McKinvin, Mrs. Ruth Whan Gorbey, Youngstown, O.; Mrs. Lettie Edwards McKinney, Mrs. Nellie Yoho Hogue, New Castle; Mrs. Marie Yoho Jones, West Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs. Martha Huffman Eicholtz, Mrs. Thelma McDanel Yoho, Mrs. Helen Yoho Cunningham, Mrs. Sara Galbreath Mougout and daughter.

The memory books have arrived at the home of Mrs. Maude Whinnery Hamilton and those who paid for them in advance are now securing them at her home. One of the interesting features of the book is the fact that the name of every student who ever attended the college is in the book.

Volant as a community, as in former years is joining in an affair and the entire community and many former residents of the town will participate in the affair along with the former students of the college.

CLUB PICNIC
The annual outing of the Woman's club of this place was held at Willow Grove Thursday afternoon and evening and was a decided success and one of the most pleasant and enjoyable affairs of the season.

TROOP ON HIKE

Girl Scouts of Troop No. 11 met at 10 o'clock this morning and left on a five mile hike to "parts unknown." The troop was in charge of Mrs. Charles Irwin. Each girl took her own lunch.

Plans for the hike had been made at the regular meeting in the Central Christian church Friday night. Sewing formed an interesting part of the meeting.

Still, Mr. Morgan wasn't unfair. He gave all of us an opportunity to lose some money.

Few From Here At Meeting Of School Heads

Rule Gives Word Of Encouragement Over Outlook
For Future In StateDIRECTORS GIVEN
LEEWAY IN BUDGETS

Only a few school directors of Lawrence County were in attendance at the meeting held in Slippery Rock Friday afternoon, when the new legislation recently enacted was explained to county school superintendents, supervisory officers and school directors, by State Superintendent John M. Rule, County Superintendent of Schools John C. Sylling stated this morning.

A meeting of school directors from the county will be called by Mr. Sylling in the near future, when all the recent legislation, which will be discussed and outlined. This information is not as yet available from the state, but is being printed now, Dr. Rule told Mr. Sylling yesterday.

A total of 44 bills were passed by the legislature affecting public education. Prominent among these was Act No. 48, which gives the school directors more leeway in their budgets, to enable them to keep their schools open during the coming two-year period. It is the act through which boards may control reduction of teachers' salaries under certain conditions. It also prohibits unregulated reductions of teachers' salaries and temporarily sets aside some mandatory features of the teachers' salary law.

Although the appropriation for schools was cut $5,000,000, from the figure originally asked for by Dr. Rule, Governor Pinchot, having vetoed the bill providing for a five million dollar fund to aid poor districts, it is believed that the full amount of appropriations will be paid out during the first year of the biennium, and if there are any reductions to be made in state aid, they will be passed on to the second year.

Proper installation of lightning rods calls for connection to any water line entering the building, correct grounding in deep earth or gravel, and the use of simple points without ornaments.

As the general direction of the wind in Pennsylvania is from west to east new buildings should be located north and south from each other so that sparks will be blown to one side rather than from one building to another. Wildbreaks to the west, and under special conditions at other angles generally to the northwest, will prevent a strong wind from fanning the flames.

Spontaneous combustion is another fire problem enhanced by poor curing of hay and partly by poor moving away in the hay loft. A revolving hay chute under the hay track saves labor and prevents packing of the hay under the fork.

Proper construction of flues and fireplaces is essential and the use of flue lining is recommended. Chimneys should not be constructed on wooden brackets but should have a good foundation through to the earth.

The spread of fire through a building often can be prevented by proper fire stopping between joists and rafters in the side walls. Hay chutes and open stairways are particularly menaces in barns, while ventilation flues drawing air from near the floor are not so likely to spread the flames as those opening in the ceiling.

A well-constructed electric lighting system is much safer than portable kerosene lamps and lanterns. Because of high temperature developed, gasoline engines should be kept off the barn floor, and preferably outside buildings unless they are especially constructed for them and are kept clean. Grounding the cylinder bearing of the threshing machine with a single wire to a pipe in deep contact with moist earth will help to carry away static electricity.

A long ladder reaching to the eaves and a board, with slats nailed on it, long enough to reach the comb of the roof constitute one of the first lines of defense.

Fire prevention on the farm is an important precaution.

Losses in barns caused by lightning are twice as high as from any one of the other principal causes, such as sparks on the roof, matches in smoking, and spontaneous combustion, while in farm dwellings defective flues produce a loss slightly higher than that caused by lightning. Radio aerials and wire fences are menaces where not properly constructed.

New Swimmers Enjoy Glorious Frolic As Y Pool Drive Ends

Association's Campaign Over,
140 Lads Stage Hike,
Picnic Today

One grand time was over for a certain group of 140 New Castle boys today.

It was over because the annual 10-day "learn to swim" campaign of the city's Y. M. C. A., sponsored gratis for lads who cannot swim, had ended. A hike, an outdoor picnic and a closing dip this afternoon in the Y pool marked the closing day.

Physical Director H. T. MacNicholas, aided by Roger Meermans, Herbert Baldwin, Harley Brooks and others, led the boys from the Y building this morning for an invigorating walk, after which they halted to enjoy sports. The lunch came after the games. The swim came last.

"The most successful ever," was the way General Secretary R. L. Meermans described the campaign this morning. Registrations and participants, he said, ran into the hundreds. It started June 12.

ROOSEVELT NEAR FOREIGN WATERS

Will Spend Several Days Cruising in Vicinity Of Nova Scotia

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT

International News Service Staff
Correspondent

PULPIT HARBOR, Penobscot Bay, Maine, June 24.—President Roosevelt will spend several days of his vacation cruise in foreign waters.

Shooting ahead of his schedule, the president headed the sea-going Schooner Amberg II northward toward St. Mary's, Nova Scotia.

Mr. Roosevelt knows the waters there and the small islands about the Bay of Fundy. He will probably loaf through that section for a couple of days before sailing the schooner to its final destination, Campobello, his New Brunswick island camp.

The president slept late again today, his boat moored within a mile or so of the North Haven island summer estate of the late Dwight Morrow.

The president's vacation cruise has reached the most beautiful section of the Maine coast now. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife Anne Morrow Lindbergh, honeymooned up here.

Suspect Maug And Turpac In Youth's Death

Charleroi Brother Believes
Escaped Convicts Killed
Eugene Jossen

BODY DISCOVERED IN TEXAS CITY

(International News Service)
CHARLEROI, Pa., June 24.—A railroad freight car's 2,000-mile journey was being checked today at the request of Charleroi authorities, in an effort to find a substantiating clue to a weird story that Eugene Jossen, 20, was killed here by two fugitive prison lifers and locked in the box car where the body was found in Texas.

The strange story was told Chief of Police Alex Murray by Robert Jossen, 30, brother of the dead youth.

Robert Jossen said he suspected "Killer John" Maug and Eddie Turpac, Pittsburgh hoodlums recently recaptured after a month's freedom following a Western penitentiary prison break, of killing Eugene and locking him in the freight car.

Will Visit Prison.
Robert said he believed his brother was killed to provide one of the escaping convicts with a suit of clothes. He was to visit the penitentiary today to check up the suit Maug wore when captured with the suit his brother wore when he disappeared.

Jossen was found in Big Springs, Tex., and buried in pauper's field when no identification was made. Later, information reached here he wore a Charleroi high school class ring of 1933 with the initials "A. R." engraved on it.

Anna Revela, a graduate of the 1933 class, identified the dead youth from a description and the ring as her fiancé who had left Charleroi on a hitch-hiking trip to the Chicago world's fair.

U. S. Home Loans Only For Those Now In Distress

Only Emergency Relief To Be Provided By Government Loans

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—Mortgaged home owners in Pennsylvania must be in distress before they are eligible for aid under the home owners' loan corporation program.

The home loan bank board warned today that "home owners must be in distress and in need of emergency relief to come within the provisions of the new law." Applicants who wish merely to refinance their mortgage indebtedness and are not in danger of foreclosure will be denied assistance. Such aid can be extended to those "who are unable to amortize their debt elsewhere," the bank said.

It was stated at the bank board that filing of applications will have to be delayed in Pennsylvania a few days until a state headquarters and a state manager have been selected. The machinery to administer this relief should be set up within a week or ten days, it was said.

EXPLOSION PROVES TO BE FALLING BOTTLES
About 4:40 o'clock this morning, Officer Joseph Greer reported that he had heard what appeared to be an explosion on his beat in the downtown district. Officers investigated and found that the noise had been made by the falling of a shelf on which there had been a lot of bottles, in the Neisner store. The manager was notified.

Barney Ross Is New Titleholder Of Lightweights

Tony Canzoneri Goes To Well Once Too Often; Chicago Boy Wins Bout

DECISION IS NOT OF POPULAR KIND

By JOHN C. HOFFMAN
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, June 24.—Barney Ross today is the new lightweight champion of the world. Yesterday they were fearful lest Mrs. Rose's boy couldn't take what Tony Canzoneri had to give him and even today they are wondering if the judges conformed to the better part of valor, but last night in the Chicago stadium before some 12,000 variously opinioned customers the boy, it seems, took everything including a title that will earn him $250,000 if he can keep it long enough.

Plan Re-Match
It may be, too, that he won't keep it long, because they're planning to rematch the fallen with the uplifted again in August or September.

There were murmurs of displeasure from not a few of those who are no closer to the scuffle than the six-dollar chairs and even among the elite at the ringside the decision was challenged with intermitted jeers and ribes. Referee Tommy Gilmore sawed called it a draw, but Judges E. A. Hense and W. A. Battye gave it to Ross.

Canzoneri's plan of battle developed as expected, but he astonished the clientele when he repeatedly resorted to barroom slugging with the champion and the contest took on the aspects of savagery.

Ross Can Punch
Early in the savagery of the thing Ross demonstrated his ability to absorb the vaunted Canzoneri right hand smashes. In the fifth he came out with his left eye scoring a crumple and in the sixth he sallied forth with both eyes popping blood. Canzoneri suffered two cuts on the cheek.

Canzoneri was a shade superior in the first round when Ross, succumbed to right hooks that shook him to his heels. Ross essayed a valiant effort to the champion's countenance in the second and once he spun the Italian almost completely around to win the round.

Canzoneri Good
The third was even with both fighters sparring briefly and exchanging harmless punches. Ross was emerging from the delusion of a championship bout to regard Canzoneri as just another fighter. Canzoneri was visibly distressed in the fourth when he could not understand what had been keeping Ross on his feet. Ross kept keeping the champion with a left smack, but the Italian scored heavily with rights.

The fifth was Canzoneri's round by a wide margin. He scored heavily with body punches and casual left hooks to the chin. Ross came out for the sixth with both eyes bleeding, but here again he was the superior puncher.

Ross Finishes Strong
The seventh might have been scored any way. Canzoneri was weary from the savagery of the battle, Canzoneri was puffing like a frightened housemaid near the end of the eighth.

The ninth was a repetition of the eighth, Canzoneri was missing all too many times and Ross dared to slay with him. It was not until the tenth, however, that Canzoneri got the better of the brawling tactics and once the waning titleholder hung on in desperation. They were slugging, again, at the bell.

There are two local umpires who are arbitrating games in other counties. They are Frankie Ross and Charles Guillem. Asked if the Butler county league is a faster circuit than the Lawrence County loop, the former expressed the opinion that it is. Gillum umpired in the Mid-Atlantic league last season. Both Gillum and Ross expect to be beckoned into bigger umpiring jobs before they hang up the chest and store the indicator in the drawer.

Tony Herrera and Wesley Ramey have fired challenges at the new lightweight champion, Barney Ross, who copped the title from Tony Canzoneri in 10 rounds last night at Chicago. Ramey recently defeated Canzoneri in a non-titular battle.

Washington Is In First Place

Senators Out In Front Of American League On Sustained Hitting

RUTH HITS HIS SIXTEENTH HOMER

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 24.—Washington, first in war and peace, was first in the American league today in the climax of an orgy of sustained hitting.

With the exception of Buddy Myer, still gun-shy at the plate as the result of being beaned in Detroit, and Joey Kuhel, who is just short of the charmed circle with a mark of 298, every Washington regular is hitting above .300.

Are Hitting Ball.
Manush, Cronin and Schulte are among the league's five leading batters. This month Manush's average jumped 71 points, Cronin's 53 and Goshin's 38. Manush, who got four hits yesterday, including a homer, has batted out 28 blows in his last 42 times at bat and has hit safely in 26 consecutive games.

In passing the Yanks yesterday, the second time this year that the champs have been ousted from the lead, the Senators drubbed the White Sox 7 to 3 for their 11th win in 12 starts. For the first time in his career Al Thomas of the Nats pitched against Ted Lyons, his buddy for six years when both were with Chicago.

Babe Ruth Homers.
Babe Ruth's 16th homer featured as the Yanks took a 10 to 6 slugfest from St. Louis. The champs knocked out Hebert in the nighthcap but were stopped by the veteran Sam Gray, the Browns scoring three runs in the eighth to win 5 to 4 on doubles by Storti and Melillo and errors by Lazzari and Sewell. Dixie Walker, second-string New York outfielder, collected six hits.

Boston's fast-stepping Red Sox made it three out of four from Detroit 3 to 2, with Welland outpitching Rowe.

Williams and McNair batted in all of Philadelphia's runs as the A's trimmed Cleveland again, 8 to 4. Mahaffey and Harder did the throwing.

All three leading clubs in the National league took it on the chin. Breaking a losing streak of five games, Cincinnati shaded the Giants 2 to 1 behind the gaudy pitcher of Granddaddy Eppa Rixey, a headliner for 22 years. Epp held the Giants to six hits and outpitched Bill Clark, thanks to homers by Lombardi and Adams.

Cardinals Beaten.
The Phillies slugged the Cardinals 9 to 4 for their sixth straight triumph. The Quakers put on an uproarious eight-run rally in the eighth inning at the expense of Dean and Halnes.

A homer by Tony Cucinello with the bases loaded in the eighth gave the Dodgers a 5 to 4 decision over the faltering Pirates. Larry French was the victim.

The Braves and Cubs were not scheuled.

Pirates Beaten By Cucinello
Brooklyn Player Cracks Out Homer In Eighth With Three On

(International News Service)
BROOKLYN, June 24.—The old home-run king trailed the Pittsburgh Pirates into Brooklyn again today.

Larry French, Buc southpaw, blanked the Dodgers through seven innings yesterday, coasting along on a two-run margin. He grooved one for Tony Cucinello in the next frame and the latter promptly consigned it to the spectators' stands, racing home behind three mates who were on the sacks when he delivered the blow.

A Pirate rally fell short in the ninth and Brooklyn won 5-4. Adam Comorosky—he might be called "old reliable"—was called on to pinch-hit again and he came through with a double that scored two runs in the ninth. He died on second with the tying run when the next three batters fell into easy outs.

Universals Are Playing Today

McKees Rocks All-Stars Will Be Attraction At Centennial Field At 3:15 O'clock

Universal Sanitary semi-pro baseball team of New Castle and the McKees Rocks All-Stars are playing this afternoon at Centennial field at 3:15 o'clock. The McKees Rocks team is composed of stars of the Greater Pittsburgh League. Manager Clem General of the Universals will likely pitch Paul McCullough, formerly up in the big show with Washington, against the visitors. Mike Diffley, former captain of the University of Michigan baseball team, will be behind the bat.

Canzoneri Is Not Pleased

Ex-Champion Is Displeased At Decision Given By Judges At Chicago Bout

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, June 24.—Tony Canzoneri wasn't at all pleased today with the decision which switched the lightweight championship crown from his brow to that of Barney Ross last night.

Expressing his disapproval, Canzoneri said: "The decision was the surprise of my career and I have had many of them. Honestly, I thought I was so far ahead of Ross that I coasted slightly in the eighth and ninth round and didn't extend myself in the tenth."

Sammy Goldman, the ex-champion's manager, said: "The decision was an outrage. I knew it would be sour when the judges hesitated several minutes before announcing their decision."

But Ross, the new champion, had this to say: "I beat Tony. He was a great champion and I hope to be a great one, too. He can have a return match any time he wants it."

Second Thirty-Two Will Draw Tonight

June Elimination Handicap At Field Club Is Growing In Interest

June Elimination handicap at the golf course of the New Castle Field Club is growing in interest. Recently announcement was made of the first flight of thirty-two players in the event.

It is expected that a second flight of thirty-two will have been completed by this evening, when drawings will be made for position in this second flight.

With sixty-four players in the competition, the Field Club competition will be the largest and most interesting in years.

COMMISSION TO MEET ON MONDAY

Tigers of the West Side defeated Bessemer in a game played under protest before 3,000 fans on Lee Avenue field yesterday. The score was 9-7.

The play that caused Bessemer to play under protest came in the fourth inning when Gall drove the ball to right field where it was muffed by Valentine.

A ground rule had been made permitting only two bases on blows delivered to right field. Valentine recovered the ball and threw in the direction of second base.

Gall continued to round the bases and scored as the throw in from right field into foul territory.

The Tigers claimed the runner was entitled to as many bases as he made, Bessemer claimed he was entitled to only one base after going to second.

For a time it appeared as though the game would not be ended. One of the commissioners, Ed. Fritz, was watching the game and summoned the umpires.

Game Resumed
They were instructed to give a decision on the play and to order the managers to proceed immediately with the game. The game got under way as ordered by the umpires.

Before play was resumed the manager of the Bessemer team said he would have his team play under protest. What the fans wanted was to see the game finished and it was.

Houston and Chitt hit home runs. Houston also hit a double. Grist and Cannon got doubles. D. Nord went the route for Bessemer but Pitcher Cannon was relieved by Hoffmeister.

The commission has summoned the managers of both teams and the umpires to appear Monday night to explain the ground rules and to consider the Bessemer protest.

If the protest is turned down West Side Tigers will play Mahoning A. A. for the first half of the league. If not the game will be ordered played over.

Three boys, Peter Russo, Mike Russo and Nick Masters, who were implicated in the case, were allowed to go to their homes, but were ordered to appear at juvenile court.

Kaplan was charged with "purchasing and receiving stolen property and junk from minors" and "larceny and receiving stolen goods."

The boys were charged with "larceny." The case originated when Officer Richards and Constable Joe Russo found some Pennsylvania railroad shop property in Kaplan's possession. The property is said to have amounted to $40 or $50 in value. It was alleged that this property had been sold to Kaplan for one dollar.

Stock Trading At Quiet Pace

Steady Recovery Is Evident

In Morning Transactions

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 24.—The stock market today continued yesterday's late recovery but at a slower pace and with the course of prices highly elective.

The fluctuations of the dollar, which hovered in a narrow range against foreign currencies, was without influence on the list and commodities again dominated the session.

Both wheat and cotton spurred into new high ground for the year, the former adding another cent a bushel to yesterday's upsurge. Bands were better under the leadership of speculative issues.

Railroad equipment shares were early features of strength under the leadership of Pullman, reflecting the hope that the current recovery in carrier earnings would be translated into equipment purchases soon.

Gold stocks were better and textile issues continued their rise with the spectacular Celanese forging ahead into new record high territory. The American Woolen issues also were up sharply.

Sugars improved with American Sugar spurring. Farm stocks again rose with grains. Kelvinator was a strong spot, going to a new high in active dealings on the reported spurt in its earnings.

U. S. Steel was a firm leader on the further improvement in the industry but other pivotal issues like American Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Can and DuPont were backward. Motors and oils were sluggish, meeting profit-taking after their recent strength.

Rails marked time awaiting the car loadings report and then did little on the increase. Trading continued yesterday's quiet pace.

International Control, Holds Key To Success At Geneva, Says Davis

Norman Davis Returns To
U. S. With Confidence
Regarding Disarmament

Would Oppose Disarmament
If Guarantee Was Not Given

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 24.—The nations of Europe are swinging around to the view that international control constitutes the key to successful disarmament, Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, declared on his arrival here Friday.

Returning for a conference with President Roosevelt and to attend the wedding of his son, the American disarmament expert said that France is softening in her demands for security pacts and that French sentiment in behalf of international control as a substitute is gaining.

Foremost Questions

The "floating ambassador" diplomatically forestalled questioning regarding appearance of his name on "preferred lists" of J. P. Morgan and Company by announcing he was returning to Geneva shortly, thereby scotching reports he was planning to resign because of his Morgan contacts.

"In respect to security pacts," Davis said between puffs at his pipe, "No nation whose signature is worth a dime wants to sign a blank check."

"What Europe recognizes now is that supervision of disarmament can be achieved through an international commission. They are beginning to realize this is the only way of attaining practical security."

Regarding American participation in international control, Davis said:

"It would be absolutely opposed to disarmament by the United States unless there are assurances other nations will not play any tricks, event in yachting, a gentleman's sport, there is inspection and no insult implied. Supervision should not embarrass nations. If they do not keep their word, they deserve to be embarrassed."

Davis hailed disarmament as the greatest single step to world economic recovery.

"If we could reach a disarmament agreement tomorrow," he declared, "actually limiting and reducing arms, it would be like turning on a dynamo. It would be the greatest single step to economic recovery. Confidence would be restored, factories reopened, trade stimulated and men put back to work."

Change Takes Place

While the situation in Germany since the rise of Adolf Hitler has affected France, there nevertheless has been a 'great change' in French sentiment toward disarmament in the past year, Davis said.

"Of course," he added, "there are lots of obstacles in the way, but unless something unforeseen occurs as a political disturbance, I am confident we shall reach our goal."

The British draft convention and the four-power pact have given valuable spurs to the disarmament efforts, Davis declared. All the nations, he said, now seem disposed to work rapidly.

"Armaments are the product of fear," he said. "Disarmament would be relief from fear."

Russia Helpful

"We are conferring now and have been right along. We would be foolish not to. It is a matter of self-interest, not idealism."

Soviet Russia, the ambassador said, has been very helpful at the Geneva conference.

"She seems more willing to do more disarmament than anyone else," he declared.

So far as the United States is concerned, Davis said that America should not play the part of a 'sucker' nor should she stick her head in the sand like an ostrich while the world progresses around her.

Gentleman's Game

"It would be absolutely opposed to disarmament by the United States unless there are assurances other

State Forester John C. Miller arrived in camp for a visit on Wednesday. Assisting him will be two other men who will help direct the actual forest work which starts in three or four more weeks.

The state forester, interviewed by the correspondent, plans to later explain the nature of work the New Castle boys will do.

Says Elderly People Unfit For Leadership

Nerve Changes Make It Difficult To Learn Things, Scientist Asserts

LOSS OF VITALITY LIMITS THINKING

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service Science Writer

CHICAGO, June 24.—Scientific "proof" that elderly people are least fit to manage social, national and world affairs in this modern time of rapid change was submitted today to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

From 25 years onward the mere progress of time alone causes man to suffer nerve changes that make it increasingly difficult to learn new things or change old habits, Dr. Floyd L. Ruch of the University of Illinois told the association members.

This is the way he put it in his lecture: "The decline of learning ability in the aging as possible explanation of their conservatism."

"Conservatism which comes with old age must depend upon a loss of plasticity in the neuro-muscular tissues themselves."

As a consequence of this loss, the aged become increasingly less able to learn new materials or more specially materials demanding the tearing down of old habits of reaction, and as accordingly limited in their thinking to the use of experiences acquired in the past.

The further proposed change of reform deviates from their past experience, the harder it is for them to grasp its significance or appreciate the need of it.

"In the present period of rapid flux, when morals are changing, when broad human values are being rapidly revised, a certain measure of conservatism must seem to be a part of the biological heritage of senescent man."

Inflation Need Being Removed

Credit Expansion Is Removing Inflation Necessity Says
New York Man

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, June 24.—Credit expansion in the government's $3,300,000,000 public works program is removing the need for currency inflation, Col. Willard T. Chevalier, New York publisher, said Friday in an address before a group of local business leaders.

Directly added, is a drain on the nation which would have absorbed the entire national income in a short time.

"We had to fight direct relief bitterly," he said. "We knew it was not the right way to recovery and eventually it is now."

Chevalier also denounced the idea that people should be put to work without labor saving equipment, pointing out that such a condition provides little work for industrial employees and would not give a community the most for its money.

Referring to the industrial recovery bill, he stated its chief purpose is to prevent the exploitation of labor and thus protect the mass-purchasing power of the nation.

Have Good Records

Joan Wadlinger of Grade Three of St. Joseph's Parochial School, which closed its term on Friday, had the honor of having the highest average in her work of any pupil in the room.

Quite a number of the members of the same grade had perfect attendance records for the term. They were David Doran, Joseph Maher, Virginia Brincho, Florence Fee, Mary Elizabeth Kelly, Catherine Mulcahy, Mary Irene O'Connor, Eleanor Valley and Joan Wadlinger.

Hundreds of thousands of animals are abandoned each summer in this way, according to Sydney H. Coleman, president of The American Humane Association, and much needless suffering is caused. He urges all owners of pets, who cannot otherwise provide for them, to get into touch with local animal societies. These societies will attempt to find homes for unwanted dogs, cats and birds, and failing to do so, they will be humanely destroyed to prevent suffering.

DRY GOODS OR WET GOODS

In discussing the question of liquor, from the point of view of the merchant, we are just going to be honest about the matter, and speak from actual experience, and state facts in the case.

Having been in the dry goods business, both before, as well as after the 18th Amendment was passed, we know for a fact, that many families, whose children were poorly fed and clothed, to say nothing of heart aches, disappointments and humiliations, when hard liquor was flowing freely, were, when the temptation was removed, the breadwinner, by the 18th Amendment, better fed, decently and respectfully clothed, and families were made happier.

These are not exceptional cases but existed by the thousand, in every city, and that condition is exactly what will happen again if the 18th Amendment is repealed. The wets would have you believe that there is just as much liquor drank now, as ever. If that is true, why is it necessary for the brewers to go on the air, with programs, to try to educate people to drink beer and more beer. One only has to keep his eyes open to see that, right now, since the 32 beer has been legalized, there are people drinking more beer, than before.

To think the consumption of liquor will not increase, if the 18th Amendment is repealed, is absolutely absurd. It is, therefore, our honest conviction, as merchants, through experience and observation, that the 18th Amendment should stand, and be enforced. The awful toll that the liquor traffic exacts, is not only food and clothing, but health and morals—it always has, it always will. Can we afford to pay such a price, in human welfare, for a few dollars in revenue which is being emphasized at this time?

ASK OFFICIALS TO ATTEND CEREMONY

City Invites Postal, Treasury
Chiefs To See Post Office Stone Laid

United States postal and treasury department officials have been extended customary invitations to attend the New Castle postoffice cornerstone laying exercises here on Friday, June 30.

The cornerstone ceremony, however, will not likely find any of the department chiefs present inasmuch as department heads make more of an effort to be present for dedicatory ceremonies of new public buildings, at which event the official transfer of a building from the contractor to the government takes place.

It is said that local officials will make a determined effort to bring some high postal or treasury department head here for the dedication of the structure.

The cornerstone laying event has been completely arranged.

Hutton Refuses To Believe He Is Proud Papa

"It's Out Of Question And I Didn't Know Anything About It," Says Aimee's Husband

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, June 24.—David Hutton, Jr., husband of Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist of Angelus Temple, today replied to a cablegram from Paris saying that he was a father.

Hutton, however, asserted it was "out of the question," and declared that the message was a "hoax."

The mysterious cablegram, read: "David Hutton, Angelus Temple, Los Angeles: Darling boy nine pounds son doing splendidly understand press inquisitive but keeping quiet. (Signed) adoringly wife."

The cablegram was dated June 23. "It's ridiculous," Hutton said, according to his manager, Harry C. Brandon. "My wife would have let me know about this long ago and besides I know that such a thing is out of the question."

His combination came out, but not in the order of his auto number. Had he boxed it he would have been all right, but he was saving money.

Norman Davis Arrives Home

America's Ambassador-At-Large Reaches New York, Confident Of Arms Success

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 24.—Norman H. Davis, America's ambassador-at-large, returned Friday aboard the Bremen confident of the ultimate success of the disarmament conference in Geneva.

He declared Europe now favored disarmament as a "cold blooded business proposition" but that he would not let the United States be disarmed without complete international supervision.

Proper Vacation
Care Of Pets Urged

ALBANY, N. Y., June 24.—The American Humane Association and societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals are making a plea national in scope, to prevent abandonment and neglect of animals and pets during vacation periods of the summer months. Many owners of pets, finding it inconvenient to arrange for their care or shipment while vacationing turn them loose in city streets or along the highways on their journey.

Hundreds of thousands of animals are abandoned each summer in this way, according to Sydney H. Coleman, president of The American Humane Association, and much needless suffering is caused. He urges all owners of pets, who cannot otherwise provide for them, to get into touch with local animal societies. These societies will attempt to find homes for unwanted dogs, cats and birds, and failing to do so, they will be humanely destroyed to prevent suffering.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

If you see a lantern moving around your neighbor's front yard these nights, don't send for the fire wagon right away. And don't drag out a size 38 persuader and start shooting. The chances are off your neighbor. The chances are he is just out looking for night crawlers.

Night crawlers it seems are especially plentiful after you have weeded the lawn. The moist roots bring them out for quartet rehearsal, and by sneaking up on them with a lantern a fisherman can get himself a nice mess of fish appetizers.

Out our way, Cris Schoenfield has first all on all the night crawlers. He has spent so much time with a lantern in his hand looking for night crawlers that the neighbors are calling him Diogenes. But still he goes on, gathering the juicy worm that attract the clammy eye of even a fish.

Corporal George Louden, of the 33rd Pursuit Squadron, writes that he too is fishing down around Newport News. All his fishing is done in salt water in the James River, Chesapeake Bay and Hampton Roads, but he hasn't caught a tarpon yet. His catch thus far is confined to croakers, hog fish, spot and trout.

Some people get the breaks and some get a poke in the nose. One lad whose name won't interest you perhaps, thinks he is one of Lady Luck's hard luck cousins. For eighteen months he played the last three numbers of his auto tag number. Played it boxed, that is every combination.

He never varied. Every day he boxed his number and paid the daily writer for it. He was a daily customer and he didn't miss once in the eighteen months. Then he decided to play the number on the nose, that is, by itself. And that very day Fate laughed out loud.

His combination came out, but not in the order of his auto number. Had he boxed it he would have been all right, but he was saving money.

THREE BADLY HURT IN TRIPLE COLLISION

NEW BRIGHTON, June 24.—A woman was seriously hurt and two others were injured in a traffic crash on the Marion Hill road. Mrs. Mary Rhodes, 65, is in the hospital with a probable fracture of the skull. Her husband, Thomas Rhodes, driver of the car, received lacerations about the head. Miss Elizabeth Irvin, 16, of Rochester, suffered fractured ribs. The accident occurred when cars driven by Rhodes, John W. Reid Jr., of Monaca and Charles Wolfram of Rochester, collided.
